ABOUT THE SONG:

Winter seems endless and who knows what lies ahead. This new single evokes that worn-down feeling of the dark days of winter, with a hint of hope that something better awaits. This project is a Toronto-Vancouver collaboration for co-writers Meg Tennant and Mark Ripp. Producing from Toronto, Ripp recorded guitars and invited long-time bandmates Micheal Baxter & Taras Skirko to contribute bass and drums, while Eric Reed engineered Tennant's vocal and piano tracks in Vancouver BC.

SHORT BIOS:

Folk/roots songwriter MEG TENNANT is originally from Sault Ste. Marie in Northern Ontario and is currently based in Vancouver BC. Her songs have been performed and recorded by folk, ragtime and bluegrass artists, as well as choirs. (MegTennantMusic.com)

MARK RIPP is a veteran Toronto singer/songwriter in the Americana genre, known as writer and front man for the Bel-Vistas. He has released several albums and currently performs with his band The Joyful Hope, instrumental rock, surf and twang. (MarkRipp.com)
